2018-19

Program (CBHS) - Doctor of Psychology

University Mission: George Fox University, a Christ-centered community, prepares students spiritually, academically, and professionally to think with clarity, act with integrity, and serve with passion.

Program Mission: The mission of the GSCP is to provide excellent education and training for future clinical psychologists who will provide outstanding professional services to their clients and agencies and demonstrate special expertise when working with clients desiring a spiritual dimension especially within the Christian worldview.

Alignment With GFU Mission: Specific alignment with GFU mission is evident in our focus on mentoring and service delivery within Christ-centered community, including high retention of students. Professional preparation as evidenced by our program objectives for achievement of threshold scores on national internship placement rates and licensure rates. Alignment with the GFU mission of local and global engagement occurs in internship placement rate and licensure which are required benchmarks to serve the local, national and global communities. Academic preparation is evidenced by passing rates on two benchmark comprehensive exams. Finally, spiritual preparation is measured by alumni survey, with alumni reporting on their ability to integrate their faith and theology with their professional work in psychology.

Degree Outcomes: Graduates will be able to:

- + Competently provide psychological services in a wide variety of clinical settings
- + Evaluate, implement and apply psychological research
- + Become licensed as psychologists
- + Commit themselves to the highest standards of professional ethics.
